An animal came to you: as animal card, in a dream, in an inner journey or "outside". It is a work- and storybook. It assists you to find out more about it playfully and learn your "animal language". Experiences of many people came into this book.

Rebred wild animals are returned to the wild, domesticated cattle adopt as wandering herd their predecessors' way of living again. Rectified rivers are de-rectified sectionwise and soon attract flora and fauna of alluvial forests. Why? In order to recover diversity, well-being and beauty.

And us 'domesticated' and 'rectified' human beings?

We are able to return to the wild as well. Wildness is awareness, liveliness and intuition of our hunter ancestors, who made the cave paintings in Europe and Africa. Wildness is present. Within our body. Within deeper layers of consciousness. Here and then it sends us signals, when we are too well-behaved and adapted or when we are touched by unexpected events which make us more alert. Very often the signals of wildness appear in animal guise. Within ourselves. Or around us.

Magic fairy-tales give us important hints, how to understand their message and their language. They contain experiences of our ancestors who lived as part of nature, as they are still alive in indigenous cultures and their myths and stories.

Some animals come back to us and become companions (totem animals), when we ask them for their advice, when we honour them and celebrate life with them.

The book offers texts for 53 animals. Their everyday life as well as stories and experiences with them give stimulations, how to understand their messages. The book is directed towards people of all ages following the compass of their own desire. And to "cultural creatives" in city and countryside, living their vision and wanting to make it happen more effectively.
